11 Hospitals Get Emanu-El Fruit

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Eleven hospitals and institutions were being thankful this week for the annual Harvest Festival program of Temple Emanu-El here marking the close of the Feast of Tabernacles as fruit offerings made by children of the Sunday School were distributed to the sick and suffering inmates in wards and to the poor families on the lists of various social service departments.

In a colorful ceremony, children of Temple Emanu-El Religious School carried baskets of fruit to the altar. Later the overflowing cartons of fruit were taken by volunteer workers to the hospitals and institutions.

Student Rabbis In Twelve Pulpits

CINCINNATI (Spl.)—Twelve pulpits located in four different states have been filled for 1936-37 by Hebrew Union College students, it was announced by Dr. Henry Englander, registrar of the Cincinnati rabbinical institution. Ten congregations in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia will be served by student rabbis on a bi-weekly basis and two congregations in the immediate vicinity of Cincinnati will be served weekly.

The students and their new assignments are Sidney Ballon of Providence, R. I., to East Liverpool, Ohio; Morton A. Bauman of

3 Major Groups Asked To Unite By Jewish Vets

NEW YORK (Spl.)—A call for the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress and the B'nai B'rith to unite again to combat anti-Semitism was made in the October issue of The Jewish Veteran.

The editorial said: "It is a depressing state of affairs indeed, that our leadership has dissipated itself in petty bickering and has failed miserably to answer the crying need of the time.

"The J. W. V. demands of the Jewish leaders an accounting!

"We want to know why the squabbling and differences?

"The enemy is at our door. How are we going to meet our vilifiers and attackers?

"The time has come when all Jews must see eye to eye and face the enemy together under one united front.

"We offer the good offices of the J. W. V. to the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress and B'nai B'rith. We want to get together and see if our problems are really insoluble."

City Leaders Clarify Issue

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (Spl.)—Over the signature of twelve of Indianapolis' more prominent Jewish leaders, including Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht and Rabbi Elias Charry, a letter was mailed to every Jew in the city "to acquaint Jewish citizens with the fact that they may safely vote for either of the two presidential candidates, without fear of favoring one unfriendly to our people."

Declaring that "regardless of who is elected President, Jews will have nothing to fear from the next administration," the letter declares that a committee consisting of the signers had made an investigation of the facts and that they "would regard it as most unfortunate if there were a so-called solid Jewish vote behind either party or candidate."

The letter discussed three points, (1) Neither candidate of the major political parties is anti-Semitic and both have been friendly towards the Jewish people; (2) The publication of the incident in connection with an institution for the insane in Kansas failed to mention that the superintendent who sent out the letter in question was promptly dismissed; and (3) both candidates are opposed to racial discrimination or religious prejudice.

Other signers of the letter were Isadore Feibleman, Eph Levin, Saul Munter, Leo Kaminsky, Max M. Farb, Max M. Plessner, Richard Efroymsen, Harry A. Kahn, Ralph Bamberger, and Charles J. Karabell.

Girls Join British Fascist Army

Sir Oswald Mosley is shown above reviewing the girl Fascists of his Black Shirt army immediately preceding the parade that ended in flying stones and hurried police calls. Long before the parade was scheduled to start 100,000 anti-Fascists blocked the line of march.

End Seen For Mosley As Cabinet Ponders Action

LONDON (Spl.)—Despite Sir John Simon's declaration last week that nothing could be done to check Sir Oswald Mosley and his Blackshirts, the Baldwin Cabinet is seriously considering methods of forestalling excesses of the Fascist

Group which led to attacks on Jewish stores and pedestrians.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty, and a cabinet member, in a political speech declared that neither Communism or Fascism had any roots in British soil and would not be allowed to threaten the rights of British citizens.

Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of ter of home affairs is primarily responsible for civic order, declared he would be willing to receive a deputation from the East End of London and hear their grievances growing out of persecution of Jews in that part of the city by Sir Oswald's followers.

A request to Sir John to receive a deputation was contained in a letter sent to the home office today by Herbert Morrison, member of the last Laborite Cabinet.

Rally Opens N.Y. Young Judea Year

NEW YORK (Spl.)—The opening gun to start the season for the New York City Region of Young Judea will be fired at a monster rally, which will be held at the Washington Irving High School, 40 Irving Place, Sunday afternoon, October 25.

The highlight of the affair will be the presentation of the newly elected administration to the entire membership of the city's 90 clubs, their parents, leaders and workers. Louis P. Rucker, president of National Young Judea, will make the presentation and Rabbi Irving Miller of the executive com-

Money Offered From Floor For Hospital Fund

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (Spl.)—With the greetings from President Roosevelt ringing in their ears, 2,000 delegates to the Hadassah convention here offered cash and pledges totalling $75,000 towards the building fund for the Rothschild-Hadassah University Hospital in Jerusalem.

Written aboard Mr. Roosevelt's special train, the letter said:

"It seems to me that Hadassah has made a sound and sensible approach to its problems by emphasizing the safeguarding of health. I refer particularly to the wise emphasis being placed upon preventive medical work, hospitalization and nursing, which activities are designed to promote mental and physical fitness.

"Any group that enjoys the social security fostered by good health and the knowledge that ill-health, when it occurs will be combatted vigorously, is strategically fitted to deal intelligently with problems that may arise.

"During your convention many new and useful suggestions will be presented. I trust that these new ideas will prove useful in promoting the fine humanitarian work for the alleviation of human suffering in which you are engaged. It is both a privilege and a pleasure to extend my personal greetings to the Women's Zionist Organization of America upon the occasion of its twenty-second convention.

Less than $300,000 is needed to complete the $850,000 building fund for the hospital, work on which has already been started.

Slur On Jew Is Ouster Cause

CHICAGO (Spl.)—After fellow exhibitors stormed around the space of the American Beauty Products Company of Chicago at the American Cosmeticians' Association convention here, officers ordered the exhibit removed because of the "un-American attitude of the exhibitor."

Aroused when the firm recently opened a branch in Milwaukee by mailing 500 cards to dealers stating "Get the thrill of dealing with a non-Jewish organization," the exhibitors at the convention threatened to demolish the display of the firm unless they were evicted.

Convention officials in passing sentence said the show is "impartial to all races and creeds."

The Editor's Chair

The editor's chair has been pulled out from under him so often that like the man at the concert who awakens when the music stops, he just knows that something must be wrong when people don't complain. For several weeks now, possibly longer, no one has written in to call me "The enemy of the Jewish people."

There is no question about it. I'm just losing that admirable touch of irritating everyone and everybody. The first thing you know I'll have to change my alibi, which up until now has been, "Every knock is a boost."

The kindest complaint ever received by this column was when it was accused of "straddling the fence" on the issue of the World Jewish Congress. Although try as I might I don't think I could balance myself on any fence, much less a Jewish one, that World Congress idea is one which I fought week after week, and vigorously. As a matter of noblesse oblige, I felt that the Congress should be given every opportunity to prove the assertions of its backers and consequently I urged that the Congress be given free sway. If that is treading water, sour grapes, or backsliding, so be it. It has been called the American sense of fair play, too.

I don't know what I'll do, if people definitely stop complaining. If I survive, I'll probably resign and go into the business of stealing candy from little children or some other occupation which will make me feel as at home as I have for the past few years.

FORBID JEWISH TEACHING

BUCHAREST (Spl.)—Although religious instruction has always been a part of the curricula in Rumanian schools, an ordinance issued by the anti-Semitic, pro-Fascist Vice Premier Ion Inuletz forbids any further instruction in the Jewish faith. Great indignation was aroused by the new order. Jewish religion may be taught privately outside the schools.

Rabbis And Lay Leaders, Adult And Child, Male And Female

THE thinking Jewish layman must be beginning to wonder at the barrage being directed at him by rabbis and lay leaders not suggesting but demanding the education of children and adults too, in the history, achievements and contributions of the Jewish people from its earliest history to the present day. By a casual reference to the Jewish news of the day, it is obvious that the attack on illiteracy from the Jewish standpoint is being made with a viciousness and a determination which, if it does not peter out, will lead unquestionably to a reorientation of Jewish life to a life that is Jewish. In St. Louis Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson of New York's gilded Temple Emanu-El denounced the lack of religious education for Jewish youth. At Gary, Ind., before the meeting of the Indiana-Kentucky State Association of B'nai B'rith, Sidney Kusworm, of Dayton, O., a power in the middle west, turned the darts of his forensic ability to the necessity for Jewish education. In New York the Conservative rabbis of the nation laid the ground for a vigorous campaign for a return to the Synagogue.

B'nai B'rith, convinced now that an inner strengthening is just as essential as the necessar-ly negative campaign it has waged against anti-Semitism, is turning the efforts of the largest Jewish organization in the world toward adult Jewish education.

Like the flapper age, the age of indifference by Jews to things Jewish is passing.

Where once the number of Gentile associations was taken to be the mark of a Jew's achievement, now the knowledge of Jewish ethics and history is becoming to be, like the shechina, the badge of accomplishment in Jewish circles.

If this campaign were an orthodox phenomena, as it has been many times in the past, it would have caused little stir. If the campaign were a drive by rabbis of all shades it would generate just a little bit more excitement. But the new phenomena is a spontaneous eruption, from all sides, religious and lay, orthodox and reform and conservative, male and female, young and old.

A good Jew has never been irreconcilable with good Americanism. Good Jews do not steal, do not commit adultery; they abhor murder. Good Americans observe the same high ethics.

Whither? Where are we going? And the rabbis tell us to the "Kingdom of God on Earth?"

The Good Omen In Mrs. Becker's Cakes

HIDDEN in the simple gesture of a sponge cake baked by a Jewish woman of Fort Thomas, Ky., Mrs. Sam Becker, may be the symbol of victory for President Roosevelt in a larger landslide than that of 1932.

For when the Chief Executive stopped in Cincinnati, across the river from Fort Thomas, one of the many introductions he received was to Mrs. Becker and what was more important for those who believe in mysticism, to Mrs. Becker's delicious sponge cake.

In 1934 when Governor Albert B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky was in a three-cornered race for the Democratic nomination which was tantamount to election, he was wished Godspeed in his campaign by one of Mrs. Becker's famous sponge delicacies. Governor Chandler won by the largest majority ever registered in Kentucky politics. At the cake-giving ceremony, Postmaster General Farley was present, and after sampling of the cake, expressed the wish that he could have had a similar gift. Mrs. Becker surprised him by shipping a cake to his Washington office.

So that when the President's train arrived in Cincinnati Mrs. Roosevelt received the gift of a sponge cake with alacrity. While the Secret Service usually frowns on gifts of food along the Presidential way, they weren't worried this time. Farley was aboard to vouch for Mrs. Becker and her sponge cakes from the two former samples.

President Roosevelt isn't much of a cake eater on the whole, but he does like those in the sponge cake class, including angel food, and maybe he is not averse to partaking of the good omen in Mrs. Becker's cakes.

Satan's Only Virtue Is Consistency

THE stern warning issued by the Rev. Dr. Walter H. Rollins before the meeting of the Union Association of Congregational and Christian Churches and Ministers of New York might just as deservedly have been directed to Jewish Congregations.

"Our spiritual foundation is undermined," Dr. Rollins declared, "if we go back to gambling devices." Last year in Chicago, the Rabbinical Association, led by the stirring campaign of Rabbi Solomon Goldman, issued the same statement.

And too many Jewish congregations have pointed to the ends towards which the money was being raised, as justifying the means. Hitler and Mussolini are past masters at this sort of alibi. Gambling, except in private residences, is admittedly unlawful. Rabbis would be among the first to complain if gambling houses were permitted to operate as openly as moving picture shows.

Consistency is Satan's only virtue. Would that many of our erring congregations were as consistent in their search for righteousness as the angel of evil is in his successful penetration of our sacred halls of religion.

My Experience In Pulpit Programs

By RABBI HENRY BERKOWITZ

The papers were not uniformly good, nor were the discussions always of the same high calibre. Experience developed some faults in the scheme that were not foreseen in advance. Three papers were too many per night. Two were better, and on a few themes one paper was still better. All told, however, forty-one papers were prepared and read by forty-one members of the congregation. Each one made some little corner of Jewish knowledge his very own, because of the necessary reading and writing that he had to do on that subject.

Debatable Subjects

The second ten discussions were practically all debatable themes. Such topics as "Customs Indispensable and Otherwise," "Some Problems of Prejudice," "The Mind of the Jewish Child," "Cultural and Political Nationalism," "Jewish Prejudice Against Jews," and "Why Pray?" were provocative of highly entertaining and valuable Friday evenings.

Although this experiment had something of the features of an open forum tried before in many Temples, it differed radically from the usual forum in two important respects: first, the laymen presented their views instead of the rabbi; and second, the whole twenty weeks made up a single course of study in Jewish history and Jewish values. I will say that in these times when there were so many important sermons fairly begging to be preached, it was not easy for the rabbi to keep silent for twenty weeks. If a similar program is attempted, I will probably make it more elastic so that an occasional sermon can be interspersed when occasion demands.

The Congregants Became Students

In all respects, however, it was the consensus of opinion in my community that this new experiment in pulpit program was stimulating and valuable. From the rabbi's standpoint it was gratifying, because it made students of the assembled congregants. They listened attentively, because they regarded themselves as potential participants when the discussion period would open. Although at no time was the dignity of the synagogue affronted, there was an informality and freedom that was most grateful, as a contrast to the usual stupefying silence. There was the added satisfaction of knowing that a goodly number of the congregation had been delving into Jewish source books, and were daring to express independent opinions on all kinds of Jewish subjects that formerly had been the exclusive prerogative of the Rabbi.

Without reservation, I recommend to my colleagues that they contemplate a reduced ration of preaching and an increased diet of congregational participation. The project which I have outlined thus briefly, offers one method by which this end may be approached.

Polish Federation Protests Jabotinski Plan For Jewish Emigration From Poland

To the Editor:

The Federation of Polish Jews in America, representing over sixty thousand of American Jews of Polish origin, has issued a statement denouncing the negotiations carried on by Vladimir Jabotinski, Revisionist leader, and the Polish Government, looking towards an increased emigration of Jews from Poland. The administrative committee of the Federation, after a careful study of all the pertinent materials in connection with these negotiations, has adopted a resolution terming the activities of Mr. Jabotinski prejudicial to the best interests of the Jewish community in Poland and as a mischievous attempt to stamp the Jewish minority in Poland as a surplus population.

The statement reads as follows:

"On behalf of the membership of the Federation of Polish Jews in America, as well as on behalf of the World Federation of Polish Jews Abroad, consisting of Federations in 19 countries we voice our strongest protests against the negotiations carried on by Vladimir Jabotinski and the Polish Government for a solution of the Jewish problem in Poland by means of mass emigration to other countries. We stamp this approach as a betrayal of the inalienable civil rights of the Jewish minority in Poland in that it gives sanction to the anti-Semitic contention that Polish Jewry represents a problem apart from the general problems besetting the Republic. We reaffirm the thought that the Polish Jews constitute an integral part of the Polish State and are not to be treated differently from the other component parts of the population of Poland. Any attempt to set the Jewish minority apart is a course of mischief, a betrayal of the vital interests of Polish Jews, and cannot but lend comfort to the forces of Polish anti-Semitism.

"Polish Jews have lived in Poland for over one thousand years. They have contributed to the material and spiritual development of their Fatherland out of all proportion to their numbers. They have demonstrated their devotion and loyalty to the Polish State in times of peace and war. They have been a major factor in the development of Polish industry, commerce and finance. Their rights as an integral part of the Polish State have been vouchsafed them by the terms of the Polish Constitution and the Minority Treaty. The problems besetting Polish Jews at present are the same as are troubling all other component parts, such as the Ukrainians, White Russians, Germans, etc. If there is a problem of emigration of Jews, it is at the same time as much a problem of emigration of the other racial and lingual groups.

"It is particularly worthy of condemnation when Mr. Jabotinski pursues his negotiations with the Polish Government without any regard to the wishes and views of the responsible and authorized spokesmen of Polish Jewry. Does Mr. Jabotinski pretend to know Polish conditions better than the leaders of Polish Jewry? Does he assume that he is the only possessor of wisdom and statesmanlike qualities? Does he presume to override with impunity the considered judgment of Jewish leadership in Poland? It should be emphasized that Mr. Jabotinski has already created a dangerous discussion in the anti-Semitic press in Poland by his ill-considered and high-handed action. There is already a hue and cry against (Continued on Last Page)

The Election

During the many weeks I have been writing this column, I have just about discussed everything under the sun but love and politics. . . . I have purposely avoided these two items because I felt that I was perhaps not qualified to say anything about either of them. . . . But in view of the nearness to our election day and since everyone else seems to be blowing off a bit of steam I thought I might say at least a word about politics and leave the love item for some future date or even better for somebody else to discuss. . . . It is true that I have been somewhat interested in politics for about the last ten years working on election boards, speakers bureaus and strategy groups, and that this might give me the right to express an intelligent opinion or at least a sensible thought in reference to a certain angle about our election. . . . I realize that when you take sides politically in a paper of this character you are treading where "angels fear to tread." . . . However, now that The Jewish Post has dropped the bars, so to speak, by its editorials, pictures, articles and headlines as it did in its last edition on Landon's viewpoint on anti-Semitism, this now gives me the privilege of saying my little piece in behalf of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. . . .

It is true that the articles were devoted only to Landon's ideas on anti-Semitism and had nothing to say about his other planks and platforms, so I shall therefore confine these few lines to only the same subject. . . .

I, myself, do not believe that Governor Landon is an anti-Semite, but it just occurs to me that President Roosevelt has been free more or less from any such rumors or suggestions, and that people generally don't even attach such subjects with his name. . . . That he is recognized nationally and internationally as an extremely good friend of the Jews seems to be undisputed. . . . His amity is further evidenced by his many appointments of Jews to high government positions. . . . It just doesn't seem logical or good business to change a sure thing for something that is untried or unknown, and I refer only to the anti-Semitic viewpoints of both candidates and not to any other qualifications they possessed. . . . I would not like to see the Jewish people identify themselves with only one party; this would be a mistake, and I don't believe it will ever happen. . . . But in these times, and they are precarious ones for our people, we should do a lot of thinking and investigating before we cast our ballot. . . . The right to be able to vote is a precious one and unless we use it properly we may lose it. . . . Let's think, but let's all vote. . . .

Second Floor Must

The boss in the front office says to cut out the philosophy and pay more attention to people and places, so that if you are interested in reading about my philosophy or hearing about it from now on you will have to attend my Sunday School class instead of getting it through this column. . . . Not only that, but since The Post is growing so fast, space is naturally more scarce and hence the shortening of this column. . . . But good things come in small parcels, so bear with me. . . . Anyway, if you think the head guy is wrong, don't be bashful—write in and tell him so. . . . Monday night and not much doing, around the house and reading a good book until the wee hours—

TRUE AMERICANISM

ALFRED M. LANDON

"We again declare our insistence on the just and equal protection of all American citizens regardless of religion, race, color or nativity . . . we protest against discrimination and persecution on account of race or religion wherever and however it may be perpetrated."
—Resolution of Republican Party.

"If ever the day should come in this country that would see persecutions of any racial group or sect because of race or religion, contrary to the bill of rights, I would stand among their defenders."
—Alfred M. Landon.

TRUE Americanism reflects the traditional American principles on which our country was founded: respect for constitutional government, freedom of individual effort and initiative, racial and religious freedom and equality. It decries the foreign philosophy of regimentation, racial persecution and the concentration of power in the hands of individuals. A vote for Alfred M. Fifteen different scenes are required in staging the dramatized version of Sinclair Lewis's much discussed novel, "It Can't Happen Here," to be presented by the Federal Players at Keith's Theatre starting Tuesday night, October 27. In order to speed the work of constructing these scenes and to provide ample time for rehearsals by the augmented company, numbering close to 100 people, Keith's has been "dark" since October 10.

The re-opening of the house is timed with the simultaneous production of "It Can't Happen Here," by Federal companies in some 20 odd cities, from coast to coast—the most gigantic undertaking of its kind ever attempted in the his-

Thrift Shop In First Birthday

Plans are being formed to celebrate the first birthday of the Senior Council Thrift Shop, 2749 Northwestern Avenue, which was started November 23, 1935. Mrs. Robert McGill, chairman of the directing committee, said its program has become so extensive that the committee has subdivisions of its own, including calling and motor corps groups, and a board of directors.

Shopworn articles and various old clothes donated to the shop are distributed to impoverished families at a nominal cost. The proceeds are used for medical aid, social service, and emergency causes.

Senior Hadassah Lunch Wednesday

Mrs. J. A. Goodman will deliver the opening prayer at the Senior Hadassah luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, October 28, in the Bethel Zedeck Temple. Mrs. Roy J. Pile, prominent Indianapolis soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Harold Larsh, will present the following program: "Flee as a Bird," Dana; "Trees," Kilmersbach, and "Take Joy Home," Bassett.

Principal speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. Harry Berkman of Chicago, regional chairman of Hadassah, and member of the National Board. Mrs. Berkman spent four months last winter in Palestine and attended the World Zionist Congress. A report of the National Convention of Senior Hadassah will also be given.

Assisting Mrs. Aaron Unger, chairman of the Hospitality Committee, and Mrs. Abe Unger, co-chairman, is Mrs. Murray Satz. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Harry Spinell, Hu. 7984.

Council To Hear Chicago Speaker

Guest speaker for the meeting of the Senior Council at 2:15 Monday afternoon, November 2, at Kirshbaum Center will be Mrs. Leon Stern of Chicago. Formerly of Indianapolis, Mrs. Stern has been very active in Jewish affairs, having just completed four years on the National Board of the Council of Jewish Women. She will speak on "What Judaism Means to Me."

Kah-Roun Tootikian, director of the Indianapolis School of Ballet, will present her dancing group in several interpretive numbers.

Board Meeting Set

The monthly board meeting of the Indianapolis Section of the Council of Jewish Women will be held at 9:30 Wednesday morning, October 28, at Kirshbaum Center.

Gerald K. Smith Straddles Fence On Fascism

Interviewer Gets Late Long Ally Into Tepid Water

As further evidence of its leadership in the Anglo-Jewish field The Jewish Transcript of Seattle, Wash., last week cornered "Rabble Rouser" Gerald K. Smith for the frank interview which is printed below.

By NATHAN KREMS

Asso. Editor, Jewish Transcript
The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, a burly, word-slashing fighter who tells you in a hoarse voice and with a fixed smile that he's "just a minister of Christ who loves his fellow man" and whom the Rev. Dr. L. K. Birkhead of Kansas City—collaborator of Sinclair Lewis in writing "Elmer Gantry" and "It Can't Happen Here"—calls "America's next Hitler," gargled mouthwash in his room Tuesday in the New Washington Hotel, his large head thrown back, his feet spread apart in the doorway of the bathroom.

He had just ushered out State Treasurer Otto A. Chase, who kept reiterating, "And you tell Mr. Townsend, it's a pack of lies about me not being in perfect harmony with him?"

Now, his gargling over, he faced the Press.

"You want to know," he anticipated his questioner, his unruly black hair framing deep-set blue eyes, a hawk nose and firm jaw, "if I'm going to start a Fascist dictatorship and kill off all the Jews?"

He walked to the window, took a pose.

"The Jewish people, of course," he said, "are panic-stricken. The Jew reminds me of a jealous woman. She caught her husband being unfaithful. Now, every time he gets a new necktie she thinks it's to impress his stenographer. When he goes into a hotel to greet a friend, she thinks he's spent the night there."

"It's no joke. It's the tragedy of a broken faith."

The 210-pound, five foot eleven inch, 38-year-old spellbinder, who can coin striking phrases and fluently mouth an adjective-filled sentence faster than you can write it down, spread his lip in the tight smile that is almost automatic with him—a smile that is part of his platform stock-in-trade.

"Do you know William Dudley Pelley?" he was asked.

"I've heard of him," the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith answered. Obviously, he wanted to drop the subject.

"Have you ever met him?"

"I saw him one time," replied Gerald Smith, who usually doesn't have to be prompted to answer a question.

"What do you think of him and his anti-Jewish program?"

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith paused a bit. Then he said: "I saw him when he was writing a piece for the American Magazine on 'seven minutes in heaven'—or was it hell?"

He flashed his teeth. "I read your paper from start to finish," he volunteered, anxious to change the subject, to his Jewish Transcript interviewer. "I got it this morning. Be a Jew and don't be ashamed of it—that's your editorial policy, isn't it?"

"Well, let me tell you this: Mr. Roosevelt has done more injustice to the Jews than any other man in history. Why? Because he openly bids for the Jewish vote. And when you do that, you put the Jew in the spotlight, you subject him to jealousy, you endanger him. It's

In an interview with Nathan Krems in Seattle, Gerald L. K. Smith, called "rabble rouser No. 1" of the United States, voiced his opinion of Jews, on Pelley, and on Fascism. He is shown swearing fealty in (1) to the late Huey Long, his one-time leader.

In (2) he is practicing oratorical flourishes while (3) and (4) show him arousing an audience to frenzy.

more dangerous for a politician to patronize you than to attack the Jews.

"You don't believe Roosevelt is sincere, do you? If Roosevelt is elected again, he'll prevent an election in 1940. He's the Krensky. Yeh! He's all greased for the pole."

His restless reporter brought him back to the Silver Shirt Pelley question.

"Were you a member of Pelley's Silver Shirts?"

"I was not," Gerald Smith replied. (The Rev. Dr. Birkhead told The Transcript he had Silver Shirt records showing both the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith and his wife to be Silver Shirt members, and proof of correspondence between Pelley and Smith.)

The phrase-making preacher disclaimed being against the Jews. But he's not against Pelley, either, he was quick to say.

"You Jews cry because you're a minority being persecuted. Pelley and his Silver Shirts are a minority, too. I have no doubt he is sincere, in his own way. I read your paper. You're persecuting him, just like you don't want to be persecuted."

"But you're not anti-Jewish, you don't believe all the world's troubles should be blamed to the Jews, Pelley does. Are you for him or against him?" Smith was asked.

"I won't answer that," he said. "That's not a good question."

Is he an ex-Ku Kluxer?

Not Gerald L. K. Smith! "That's a libel and a lie," he said.

His mission here? He's "organizing a movement. I'm going to enlist 10,000,000 patriotic men and women to generate public sentiment, to use their zeal, their courage and their ardor, without pussyfooting. I want Townsend to go on dealing with the old age question. I want Coughlin to go on dealing with the money problem."

Who is paying his way? "I don't care to name them. The last time I told who was backing me, 'they' indicted eight of 'em for income tax fraud. The Roosevelt dictatorship doesn't care how it goes after the people who oppose it."

Clad in a blue serge double-breasted suit, with blue shirt, black tie and black shoes—size nines, they are—Gerald Smith held forth at length, in the hour-long interview, on why Hitler is a blessing to the Jews and why Roosevelt is "the greatest enemy they ever had." He wants Landon to be elected, if Lemke, the Townsend-Coughlin choice, is not.

"The Jews live on persecution," Gerald Smith said. "They fill their treasuries on persecution. Hitler is worth 100 million dollars to the synagogues. All they have to do is cry, 'Hitler is after us' and they can raise $10,000."

"The Jews were losing before Hitler. Let the Jews alone and you get flabby Jews like the Reform Jews, the kind that forget their racial identity and try to be like their Protestant preachers. Hitler caused Jews to renew their racial identity. Realize this: I don't approve or endorse persecution for the Jews, but I observe—observe, mind you—that it's good for the Jews."

"If anti-Semitism is stopped, it won't be by a Jew. It'll be stopped by someone like me. You shouldn't pick on men like me. I hate Heywood Brown because he lied about me on that issue."

Gerald Smith doesn't like being called a Fascist. "Throw your chest out a little and show your guts and you're a Fascist," he complained.

But—

"I'm not going to attack Fascism like I will God-hating, Christ-killing, home-destroying, terroristic Communism. You've got to remember that Fascism in Europe kept the terrible tide of Communism from sweeping over the continent."

"That's why I didn't like Rabbi Stephen S. Wise's speech a couple of weeks ago when I was in the Free Synagogue in New York. He made a terrible speech. He gave to understand that he desired a world war against Germany and Italy by France and Great Britain, but said he did not include Russia on either side. How can a man as intelligent as Rabbi Wise ignore the menace of Russia? I didn't like that."

some fun, eh? . . . Another night and past the Kirshbaum with its blazing lights but other business afoot so mustn't stop to find out what's going on. . . . Over to a political meeting (yes, Democratic) at the Burns; about a hundred people present among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Born, of course, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Born, Sam Fisch, Jack Kaumins, Hugo Strauss, J. H. Weild, Miss Henrietta Rothbard, and Ida Levy. . . . Lotsa speeches and plans and then to the basement for beer, cider and pretzels—a real spot and a good recreation. . . . Midweek and Brotherhood night at the Temple.

. . . Largest turnout in the history of the organization but you can read about it elsewhere in the paper. . . . Thence over to the Spink Arms Hotel to eavesdrop on the Junior Council Bingo Party and talking to Dr. Bernard Hyman who just returning from New York clinical work and conventions, says to tell all his patients that he is again ready to serve them. . . . His office is in the Bankers Trust Building in case you have forgotten—also Loo Jaeger, Ed Cohn and Barney Stein, who reminded me that it was just a year ago at a similar affair that he met me; also present Celia Larman, Dorothy Krish and many others; Bernice Kaplan, The Voice of The Post, being introduced to "Yours Truly" for the first time. . . . and Fannette Katz and Mary Lapinska, the big shots of the group, telling me they took in over $100, and that the party was a tremendous success. . . .

Running short of names and places so to duck into the Palace Theatre, always a lifesaver, and before the lights are dimmed Saturday night it's the two doctors' wives in the rear of the show, Solomon and Berman, and up front Sam Bloom and wife and sister; Ed Cohn, who seems to be all over; Joe Bernstein (Medic), Harry Traugott, Buddy Goldsmith and one of the Goldstein boys, also Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wohlfield and others. . . . Sunday evening, and Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Solomon dropping in to pass a few moments and exchanging things of interest. . . . Thursday night and out B'nai B'rithing with the boys for new members and cornering several in Myer Cohen's drug store across from the Zaring Theatre, Jack Axelrod and Bernie Hyman, Lou Jaeger, also Jeanette Gold and girl friend sipping sodas. . . .

. . . Mrs. Cohen (she was the former Ruth Frand) in town for a visit and stopping at the Severin I believe, or so I am informed. . . . Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Fichman are house-looking. . . . He is opening up a larger office at 200 Test Building. . . . Say, any of youse guys want to sell your electric razor. . . . I know some ADD PEOPLE. . . . holx—F. . . . one that will give a "Fin" for a good one. . . . Am I getting to be a trading post? . . . In the Bethel Friday night and among others at services were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sablosky and family, Mrs. Borman and sons, Sidney Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goldstein, Mr. Mike Sablosky, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goldberg. . . .

The Bethel is again having its late Friday night services. . . . Large attendance is being had and Rabbi Elias Charry is giving very fine and entertaining sermons. . . . The members are still enjoying the custom of tea and cake and a discussion period in the vestry rooms after the services. . . . Well, so long again till the next time, and as the forester said, "I'll be lumbering along."

and Paul Friedman, chairman of the food committee, ask that all members bring their own toasting forks. A smoker will be held for members only on Thursday, October 29.

Hebrew For Adults Offered By J.E.A.

Two classes in Hebrew for adults are now being offered by the Jewish Education Association, beginners and for those with previous training.

A course in Hebrew Literature, Jewish History, and current Jewish problems will be given as soon as a sufficient number have enrolled. Registration may be made at Kirshbaum Center or by calling the Jewish Educational Association at Lincoln 1765.

Mowrer Talk At Kirshbaum

Edgar Ansel Mowrer, famous war correspondent, will inaugurate the J. C. C. A.'s eleventh open forum season with a talk on "Spain's Revolution and the World's Peace" at 8:15 p. m. Sunday in Kirshbaum Center.

European correspondent of The Chicago Daily News and Pulitzer Prize winner, Mr. Mowrer was the first American newspaper man to enter Spain after the outbreak of the rebellion. His experience as a foreign correspondent has taken him to three great capitals, London, Paris and Berlin.

Members of Kirshbaum are admitted to the lecture series free.

Services Resumed At Talmud Torah

Regular Saturday morning services of the Junior Congregation of Rabbi Neustadt Talmud Torah were resumed October 17. The services, which are held at 9:30 a. m., are conducted by the children under the supervision of teachers, with one child acting as cantor.

The services are open to all Jewish children of the neighborhood, regardless of whether they attend Hebrew School.

Classes Begin

A beginners' class for children who have not had any Hebrew education opened October 19 at Kirshbaum Center. Children with previous training will be placed in proper classes. Three groups will meet on Tuesday and Thursday, and three groups on Monday and Wednesday. Classes are held from 4 to 6 p. m.

Registration may be made at Kirshbaum Center or by calling the Jewish Education Association at Lincoln 2765. Bus service for children living beyond walking distance is available at nominal cost.

The Hebrew Kindergarten has opened at Neustadt Talmud Torah for its ninth season. Children four years old and up are eligible, and receive general as well as Jewish training.

Sachar Talk Set At Kirshbaum Thursday

"The Present Crisis in Jewish Life," will be the theme of a lecture by Dr. Abram Leon Sachar at Kirshbaum Center at 8:15 p. m. Thursday, October 29. This will be the first in a series of three lectures to be given by Dr. Sachar at the Center this season and was arranged in response to the widespread interest which Dr. Sachar's talks have aroused in past years.

Mrs. J. A. Goodman is chairman of the Jewish Studies Committee of the Jewish Community Center Association which has arranged the series.

NOAR CLUB OFFICERS

New officers of the Noar Club, Young Judea group, are Tillie Casardo, president; Freda Cohen, secretary, and Sophia Nahmias, treasurer. The Misses Francis Schneiderman and Lillian Lovinger are sponsors of the club.

Cowboy Motif At Hadassah Affair

Ace Bailey and his Cowboy Band will entertain at the Junior Hadassah Round-up at 8:30 p. m., Monday, October 26, in the Kirshbaum Center. Open to all paid-up members and those who have paid half of their dues, the affair will be carried out in cowboy motif with the girls dressed in jodphurs or farmerette costumes.

Refreshments in keeping with the rustic atmosphere will be served.

Mrs. Nat Neveleff is a patient at Martinsville Sanitarium where she is recovering from a stroke suffered several months ago.

Zionists On WFBM Here November 1st

The Zionist Organization of Indianapolis will celebrate Balfour Day with a radio broadcast over WFBM at noon Sunday, November 1. Cantor Myro Glass and Mrs. Leon Levi will present a musical program, and Mrs. R. Newman will give a talk.

Segar Talk Is Postponed 1 Week

Due to the illness of the guest speaker, Gerhart Segar, the Men's Club of the Bethel Temple has postponed its meeting until Wednesday, October 28. Mr. Segar was among the most popular of last year's speakers, and this time will talk on "Europe on the Verge of a New War." Current events will be given by Leo Selig.

Miss Sara Mandel of Brooklyn, N. Y. is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mandel.
